

A close-up photograph of the rear wheel well of a silver car. A red circle highlights a small hole in the body panel, which is the exit point for water from the sunroof's rain hole. A red line connects this hole to a text box on the right side of the image.

Water going thru
sunroof rain hole
exits here